FROM FATHER MARK OCT 18 2020

GREETINGS.

As you know, we are well into the current election cycle and are now deciding how we will cast our votes. The right to vote is a great gift that we have in our nation and we are called to exercise this right responsibly.

As we know, there is no perfect candidate. Thus, we are called to do our best in casting our votes.

We are called to cast our votes in accord with our well-formed conscience. Our church, while it does not tell us who to vote for, does provide some guidance as we seek to find the best candidates to support. Our diocese has provided some guidance for Catholics. This document can be found at: <https://www.dmdiocese.org/ministries-and-faith-formation/adult-faith-formation>.

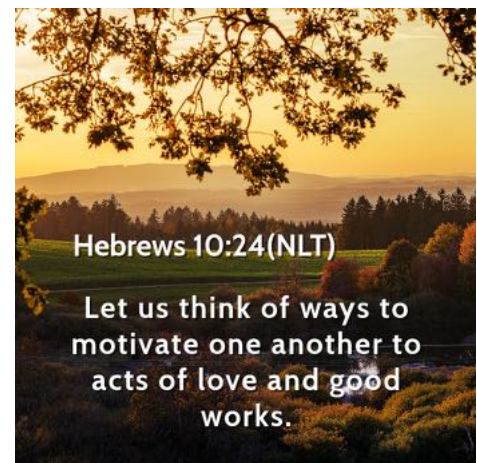

This link also includes a guide developed by the four bishops of Iowa.

A note about weekend Masses. As our numbers continue to slowly increase, it will become more important that people are seated as efficiently as possible. As you know, we have the rows laid out with areas that are closed as well as number cards indicating how many people can sit in a particular section of an open row. When you arrive, please fill in from the front of the church first, especially if you have 1, 2, or 3 people as the shorter rows are at the front of the church. This will allow us to accommodate more people. I have observed that most of the time the front row of each section is left empty. I know this is different for many, but your help and cooperation with this is greatly appreciated.

Finally, as I mentioned at last weekend's Masses, we are now at the time of year when we are looking to next year's budget and our fiscal needs. We want to continue providing the services and ministries that you find helpful. To be able to do that in a high-quality way we do need your financial support in tithing. You will be receiving a letter from me with your tithing card. I ask that you give this your most prayerful consideration as you determine what you will be able to do in the coming year in support of our parish. Thank you again for your continued generosity to Holy Trinity.

May God continue to bless us all, and may God bless Holy Trinity.

Fr Mark Neal

NOTES FROM THE SCHOOL OCT 18 2020

IT'S ALL SAINTS ALL MONTH at Holy Trinity Catholic School...leading up to All Saints Day! We are posting Saints of the day on Facebook so you and your family can invite them into your home more often. You can learn about what they did for the world and how they were also just...people. Did you know that St. Augustine "didn't listen to his mom" when he was a kid, or that St. Francis of Assisi "led a really nice life before he gave it up for God," that St. Frances Xavier Cabrini "loved playing with dolls" and also endured many hardships when she came to the United States, St. Ambrose sang beautifully, St. Barnaby's talent was juggling, and St. Benedict was a whiz at baking bread!?

Here are some of the resources that can help your family get to know the saints better: (from the Des Moines Diocese Family Resources site--Busted Halo: Want to Raise Little Saints? Tell the Saints Stories by Katie Waite)

"Once Upon a Time Saints" by Ethel Pochocki, illustrated by Tom Matt

As the author states, the stories written in the book "are meant to show human and lovable (most of the time) people whose passion for God led them into preposterous escapades." My children loved the fairytale-like stories, and they were bite-sized enough to read and discuss over breakfast. Filled with both popular and also some lesser-known saints (Comgall was a new one for us), the author chooses to focus on story rather than statistics. And it works. For example, my kids now fondly think of St. Anne as Jesus' Nana.

"Stories of the Saints" by Carey Wallace, illustrated by Nick Thornborrow

Although the stories written about these saints are just as beautiful, the gorgeous illustrations are what grab your attention first. I recommend reading the short introduction aloud to your children before you venture into the stories as it encapsulates well the tone of the book. I appreciated that this book didn't gloss over the difficulties saints had in their lives. For example, the author mentions Mother Teresa's struggle with her own faith. I love the author's message that "no matter how flawed or frightened we feel, when we let the courage of faith transform us, the whole world can be transformed, too" and it resonates well with the lives depicted in the book.

"New Picture Book of Saints: Illustrated Lives of the Saints for Young and Old" by Rev.

Lawrence G. Lovasik, S.V.D. An oldie but goodie. This is the saints book we keep in the car and let our little ones bring into church. It was the first kids' saints book we gave our children. The exact one we have belonged to my husband's late brother, which makes our connection to it even more special, and is a constant reminder to my kids that "Uncle Cory" is always with us.

Through all these resources, my kids and I have heard tales of amazing heroes who suffered, sacrificed, and loved greatly for God. However, we also got to know them as people: real, everyday people. Like us. And that lesson is equally important. Because it makes the impossible seem possible. I want my children to know that they can love playing with dolls like St. Frances Cabrini, they can not listen to their mom like St. Augustine, they can love hiking and the outdoors like St. John Paul II, and they can also, one day, be saints like them too.

NOTES ON THE MASS OCT 18 2020

SPIRITUALITY OF THE READING

Which Side Are You On?

There seem to be two realms, God's and Caesar's. Jesus says so in Sunday's Gospel: "Give to God the things that are God's and to Caesar the things that are Caesar's."

Which realm do we live in?

Are we "Sunday Catholics," giving to God maybe an hour per week at Mass and then getting on with television and cars and work and food? And maybe with being afraid? Or with wishing things had turned out better? Do we leave it to professionals to pray to God while we live a lesser life? Have we given our life to Caesar?

Or do we try it the other way around?

Perhaps we are so serious about Christianity and spirituality that we try to get away from enjoyment of any worldly thing so as to live uncorrupted. Through the history of Christianity there have been marvelous examples of this. The desert hermits. The cloistered nuns and monks. The great mystics. "A penny for Caesar and all the rest for God?"

If you push this statement too far, however, everything of Caesar must go away because it is not God, or on the other hand, God has to go away because science and secularism are so powerful.

Maybe Jesus made his statement to settle the argument that was posed to him by the Pharisees. Here is a key. Can God and Caesar co-exist? What if you are created to be a channel for God's presence right in the midst of the secular world? What if, in spite of the voices within you that say you are not worth much, in spite of the setbacks of life, the losses, the flatness, in spite of all these, what if God created you with room inside you where God, out of love for you, can be quietly present?

I can hear objections to such an idea: "God would never be at home in me, not until I do a lot better with my life." Or, "You want me to be some kind of nut, running around acting holy?" Or, "Sure, I want to let God in, but I like beer and TV too much." Or, "What does all this have to do with real life?" Or simply, "I don't want to."

But what if God were a great friend? In fact, how would it be if God were a companion who truly and actually accepts you and forgives you completely whenever you need it? Wouldn't this give you another way to look at the connection between heaven and earth?

Wouldn't it mean that God put you and me into the world to be holy in it, to be friends with the things of Caesar? To work in the world of sin in spite of our own sins?

Could it be that we ourselves are those "things that belong to God" that Jesus spoke of? "Belong," not in a possessive way, but in the way felt by people who love and are loved. We "belong." If this were so, why wouldn't we want to give ourselves to God, and then also to bring our God-filled selves to Caesar's palaces and to the dirty roads outside them and show everyone what Jesus is all about?

Which realm should we live in?
Both.

John Foley, SJ

BRING THE GOSPEL HOME OCT 18 2020

READING I: Isaiah 45:1-6

PSALM: 96:1-10

READING II: Thessalonians 1:1-5b

GOSPEL: Matthew 22:15-21

Question for Children:

In your young life, who has helped you know Jesus as a friend?

Question for Youth:

We are supposed to give to God the things that are God's. What in your life is dedicated to God? How do you keep those things sacred?

Question for Adults:

If you were to write a thank you note to someone or to a group who has helped you grow in faith, to whom would you write and what would you say?

SAINT OF THE WEEK

Luke, Evangelist

Luke is the author of the third Gospel and of the Acts of the Apostles. He was the only Gentile Christian among the four Evangelists and his Gospel, written in Greek, was unquestionably written for Gentile Christians. Tradition has him as a Greek-born, from Antioch. Saint Paul called Luke "our beloved physician" (Col 4:14) and Luke was known to have traveled with Paul on his second and third missionary expeditions in Greece and Rome. He also accompanied Paul on the dangerous journey to Rome, where Paul wrote, "only Luke is with me" (2 Tim 4:11).

Luke's message today: Like the other Evangelists, Luke's message is with us today as it has been throughout the history of the Church. They have given us the Gospels, which enable us to learn about Jesus' life and ministry. Further, the Acts of the Apostles give us grounding in the work of the Holy Spirit in the early Church.

Are you familiar with Luke's Infancy Narrative (1:5-2:38)? Read this beautiful story again and reflect on its relation to your life today.
